

1

SHARES

ShareTweet

608 views

Michael Aaron Coopersmith | mcoopersmith@radford.edu

I recently visited the downtown gallery in the former Bondurant building on Main Street to see the RU Juried Student Show. It was quite impressive to see the top choice of student art from Radford University.

If one were to walk through this exhibit, they might see that there are many different styles of art; encompassing from realism to surrealism. Some examples of the showing were experiencing politics and the social environment such as Jeffrey Stallings' painting; The Times They Have Changed.

Additionally, we also see paintings and photos based on nature such as Kendra Edgell's black and white photography; Peruse, and Dalon Hall aptly named I Found This in a Dark Place.

Overall, I can rest assured to take pride in such beautiful works that come from our students.

This slideshow requires JavaScript.

Photo Credit (Aaron Coopersmith | The Tartan)